BULLS TAKE CHARGE OF WHEAT MARKET

Prices Rise on News That Russia Is Importing; Corn Closes Higher.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Russia importing wheat and showing a hostile front in regard to the Austrian desire had a bullish effect on prices here. Despite the effect of the steel market, the wheat market closed steady at 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 above Saturday night, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, and provisions varying from 1/4 off to a rise of 1/4.

Bullish feeling in wheat right at the start. Besides the war talk, there was reason for strength because of world shipments being much lighter than expected. Weakness in the stock market brought about a temporary setback, but complaints of Russian fly in portions of Russia and Nebraska tended to aid the bulls.

Argentina wheat bought to go to the United States. The market from a second attack of which sellers were pressing hard. It was explained that good milling wheat was scarce in Russia, but there was a disposition in some quarters to believe the unusual demand came from military haste rather than from Russia. Shortage was on the run when the Russian demand came to the market had been subjected to several zig-zag fluctuations with wheat.

Provisions averaged higher. The monthly statement of stocks on hand was bullish, especially as to lard.
